

CONTENTS

INTRODUCTION	4	Feral Cat Den Studio
		Evan Anthony, Jeremy Abel	130
1. INDIE GAMES GENRES?	9	Amanita Design Studio	136
Roguelike	11	J. Dvorský, R. Jurda, J. Plachý
Couch games	16
Simulation and survival	18
Puzzle genres	20
Environmental narrative and narrative experience	24
Traditional craftsmanship and AR/VR	29
Mossmouth Studio – Derek Yu	34
3909 LLC Studio – Lucas Pope	40
Simogo Studio – Magnus Gardebäck	44
2. THE PARADOX OF CHOICE	53	4. THE PUBLISHERS' COMEBACK	147
Beginnings on PC and mobile	55	From distribution to publishing	150
Porting games	60	From developer to publisher	154
New horizons	73	The indie expert publishers	166
House House Studio – Jake Strasser	80	Partnering or not?	172
Yaza Games Studio		One size does not fit all	178
Dorota Halicka, Wojtek Janas	84	Pixpil Studio – Ruimin Zhu, Tommo Zhou, Feng Ye, Moran Hong	180
Ghost Town Games Studio		Scavengers Studio – Simon Leclerc, Adrien Chenu	184
Phil Duncan, Oli DeVine	88
3. THE QUEST FOR VISIBILITY	91	5. COLLABORATING WITH THE COMMUNITY	191
Social media's influence	94	Financing your dream	194
The limitations of social media	106	Alternative funding	202
The PewDiePie Effect	108	Early access and feedback	205
Influencer limits	111	Test, test, test again	211
Impact of traditional medias	116	From virtual to real world	217
Make something unique	122	Asobo Studio – David Dedeine	222
		11 bit Studio – P. Marszał, J. Stokalski, K. Adamczewski	231
		6. JUST DO IT	237
		Learning by doing	239
		Never underestimate anything	241
		Creating a company or not	242
		Start small	243