

Contents

INTRODUCTION ix

I. THE NUCLEAR PROBLEM IN ITS INFANCY

1. Early Reflections on the Atomic Bomb 3
The Atomic Bomb and the Choices for American Policy (1950) 3
*The Nuclear Deterrent and the Principle of
"First Use"* (1954) 6
A Sterile and Hopeless Weapon (1958) 6

II. EAST-WEST RELATIONS UNDER THE SHADOW OF THE NUCLEAR BOMB

2. The American-Soviet Relationship: A
Retrospective (1976) 13
3. Is Détente Worth Saving? (1976) 48
4. Selections from Interviews 59
*"Containment" and the Fear of a Russian
Attack* (1975) 59
*Could the Russians Successfully Dominate
Western Europe?* (1976) 60
"Liberation" as an Objective of American Policy (1976) 62
Two Views of Soviet Leadership (1978) 64
Détente and Its Opponents (1978) 65
The Helsinki Agreements (1976) 70
Finlandization and Nuclear Blackmail (1976) 70
*Why Nuclear Weapons Should Be Totally
Eliminated* (1976) 72
The Soviet Danger versus Ecological Disaster (1976) 72

| | |
|---|-----|
| 5. The Soviet Union: The Reality (1977) | 75 |
| 6. Soviet-American Relations (1977) | 102 |
| 7. Soviet Strategic Objectives (1978) | 127 |
| 8. Politics and the East-West Relationship (1980) | 134 |
| 9. A Risky Equation (1981) | 148 |
| 10. Two Views of the Soviet Problem (1981) | 151 |
| 11. Afghanistan and Poland | 161 |
| Afghanistan (1980) | |
| The Soviet Occupation | 161 |
| The Stabilization of the Situation | 165 |
| Poland (1982) | |
| Jaruzelski's Course | 167 |
| As the Kremlin Sees It | 169 |

III. THE NUCLEAR AGE IN CRISIS

| | |
|---|-----|
| 12. A Proposal for International Disarmament (1981) | 175 |
| 13. The Alternatives We Face (1981) | 183 |
| 14. Denuclearization (1981) | 189 |
| 15. On Nuclear War (1981) | 192 |
| 16. A Christian's View of the Arms Race (1982) | 201 |

IV. THE NUCLEAR DELUSION

| | |
|---|-----|
| 17. America's Unstable Soviet Policy (1982) | 211 |
| 18. The Arms Race and the Antinuclear Movement (1982) | 232 |
| 19. Why, Then, Not Peace? (1982) | 242 |
| Bibliography | 253 |
| Index | 255 |