Contents

List of Illustrations		X
Acknow	vledgements	xi
Preface	The second state of the Books and Alberta Comment of the Second Co
1. Hin	di Films: Theoretical Debates and Textual Studies	1
1.1	Introduction	1
	Early accounts: from escapist fantasy to textual pleasure	1
1.3	Ideology, hegemony and interpellation: exploiting the form of Hindi films	8
1 4	Cultural constructions: textual analysis and feminist	oM a
101	critique constructions. textual analysis and temminst	14
1 5	Beyond simplistic oppositions	17
	Conclusion
	Sexuality and national honors hote vitesin watered
2. Auc	diences and Hindi Films: Contemporary Studies	20
	Hindi films and the South-Asian Diaspora	20
	Reconciling 'tradition' and 'modernity'? North Indian	25
2.2	men watching movies Perrond (econoism' and (reality's North Indian syamon	25
2.3	Beyond 'escapism' and 'reality': North Indian women	27
21	watching television Conclusion	30
2.4
3 Cor	ntemporary Hindi Film-Going and the Viewing
	ntext in Two Countries	33
	Why watch audiences?
	Cinema halls and audiences in historical and	2.5
3.2	geographic perspective	35
33	Going to the cinema in Bombay: reality, refuge	104 8
DAL	or romance?	38
3.4	Hindi films in London: ethnic nostalgia or	1.8
oar	empowered viewing?	48
3.5	Conclusion	52
		THE RESERVE OF THE PARTY OF THE

permanage any east behave the prolonger, but or ment Alok that is against the girls singly as a management by

SC U.S. Entrete and operation of the State of the Over Plant S. P. T.

and the state of the parable winds to make markly with rest petagonal E. S. S.

6.1 Contextualising the Indian media sex debate 6.2 Taboo scenes: kissing, sex and the 'innocent' viewer 6.3 Sexuality, chastity and national honour: 'being' Indian in Switzerland and various other sexual encounters 6.4 Conclusion: films, experience and meaning 7.Politics and Spectatorship 1: Viewing Love, Religion and Violence 7.1 Introduction 7.2 Films, viewers and the politics of Hindutva fascism 7.3 'Counterfeit collective memories': riots, religion and subjectivity in contemporary Hindi films 7.4 The pleasures and pitfalls of 'othering': inter-religious romance meets jingoistic nationalism 7.5 Conclusion 8. Politics and Spectatorship 2: Young Men Viewing Terrorism and State Violence 8.1 Countenancing cinematic terrorism: young men take on the state 106	4.	'A man who smokes should never marry a village girl':
4.2 Everyone's favourite movie 4.3 Romancing the family: Hum Aapke Hain Koum! and its viewers 4.4 Conclusion 88 5. Short Skirts, Long Veils and Dancing Men: Responses to Dress and the Body 5.1 Show and sell: young viewers read clothing in Hindi films 91 5.2 Clothing, the body and the erotic promise of Hindi films 98 5.3 Conclusion 102 6. More or Less Spicy Kisses: Responses to Sex, Love and Sexuality 6.1 Contextualising the Indian media sex debate 6.2 Taboo scenes: kissing, sex and the 'innocent' viewer 6.3 Sexuality, chastity and national honour: 'being' Indian in Switzerland and various other sexual encounters 6.4 Conclusion: films, experience and meaning 126 7. Politics and Spectatorship 1: Viewing Love, Religion and Violence 130 7.1 Introduction 130 7.2 Films, viewers and the politics of Hindutva fascism 132 7.3 'Counterfeit collective memories': riots, religion and subjectivity in contemporary Hindi films 135 7.4 The pleasures and pitfalls of 'othering': inter-religious romance meets jingoistic nationalism 147 7.5 Conclusion 154 8. Politics and Spectatorship 2: Young Men Viewing Terrorism and State Violence 8.1 Countenancing cinematic terrorism: young men take on the state		Comments on Courtship and Marriage 'Hindi Film-Style'	55
4.3 Romancing the family: Hum Aapke Hain Koun! and its viewers 4.4 Conclusion 88 5. Short Skirts, Long Veils and Dancing Men: Responses to Dress and the Body 91 5.1 Show and sell: young viewers read clothing in Hindi films 92 5.2 Clothing, the body and the erotic promise of Hindi films 98 5.3 Conclusion 102 6. More or Less Spicy Kisses: Responses to Sex, Love and Sexuality 104 6.1 Contextualising the Indian media sex debate 104 6.2 Taboo scenes: kissing, sex and the 'innocent' viewer 106 6.3 Sexuality, chastity and national honour: 'being' Indian in Switzerland and various other sexual encounters 111 6.4 Conclusion: films, experience and meaning 126 7. Politics and Spectatorship 1: Viewing Love, Religion and Violence 130 7.1 Introduction 130 7.2 Films, viewers and the politics of Hindutva fascism 132 7.3 'Counterfeit collective memories': riots, religion and subjectivity in contemporary Hindi films 135 7.4 The pleasures and pitfalls of 'othering': inter-religious romance meets jingoistic nationalism 147 7.5 Conclusion 154 8. Politics and Spectatorship 2: Young Men Viewing Terrorism and State Violence 8.1 Countenancing cinematic terrorism: young men take on the state		4.1 First, the texts	56
and its viewers 4.4 Conclusion 88 5. Short Skirts, Long Veils and Dancing Men: Responses to Dress and the Body 5.1 Show and sell: young viewers read clothing in Hindi films 5.2 Clothing, the body and the erotic promise of Hindi films 5.3 Conclusion 6. More or Less Spicy Kisses: Responses to Sex, Love and Sexuality 6.1 Contextualising the Indian media sex debate 6.2 Taboo scenes: kissing, sex and the 'innocent' viewer 6.3 Sexuality, chastity and national honour: 'being' Indian in Switzerland and various other sexual encounters 6.4 Conclusion: films, experience and meaning 126 7. Politics and Spectatorship 1: Viewing Love, Religion and Violence 7.1 Introduction 7.2 Films, viewers and the politics of Hindutva fascism 7.3 'Counterfeit collective memories': riots, religion and subjectivity in contemporary Hindi films 7.4 The pleasures and pitfalls of 'othering': inter-religious romance meets jingoistic nationalism 7.5 Conclusion 154 8. Politics and Spectatorship 2: Young Men Viewing Terrorism and State Violence 8.1 Countenancing cinematic terrorism: young men take on the state		4.2 Everyone's favourite movie	58
4.4 Conclusion 88 5. Short Skirts, Long Veils and Dancing Men: Responses to Dress and the Body 5.1 Show and sell: young viewers read clothing in Hindi films 5.2 Clothing, the body and the erotic promise of Hindi films 5.3 Conclusion 6. More or Less Spicy Kisses: Responses to Sex, Love and Sexuality 6.1 Contextualising the Indian media sex debate 6.2 Taboo scenes: kissing, sex and the 'innocent' viewer 6.3 Sexuality, chastity and national honour: 'being' Indian in Switzerland and various other sexual encounters 6.4 Conclusion: films, experience and meaning 7. Politics and Spectatorship 1: Viewing Love, Religion and Violence 7.1 Introduction 7.2 Films, viewers and the politics of Hindutva fascism 7.3 'Counterfeit collective memories': riots, religion and subjectivity in contemporary Hindi films 7.4 The pleasures and pitfalls of 'othering': inter-religious romance meets jingoistic nationalism 7.5 Conclusion 8. Politics and Spectatorship 2: Young Men Viewing Terrorism and State Violence 8.1 Countenancing cinematic terrorism: young men take on the state		4.3 Romancing the family: Hum Aapke Hain Koun!
5. Short Skirts, Long Veils and Dancing Men: Responses to Dress and the Body 5.1 Show and sell: young viewers read clothing in Hindi films 5.2 Clothing, the body and the erotic promise of Hindi films 98 5.3 Conclusion 102 6. More or Less Spicy Kisses: Responses to Sex, Love and Sexuality 104 6.1 Contextualising the Indian media sex debate 104 6.2 Taboo scenes: kissing, sex and the 'innocent' viewer 106 6.3 Sexuality, chastity and national honour: 'being' Indian in Switzerland and various other sexual encounters 111 6.4 Conclusion: films, experience and meaning 126 7. Politics and Spectatorship 1: Viewing Love, Religion and Violence 7.1 Introduction 130 7.2 Films, viewers and the politics of Hindutva fascism 132 7.3 'Counterfeit collective memories': riots, religion and subjectivity in contemporary Hindi films 135 7.4 The pleasures and pitfalls of 'othering': inter-religious romance meets jingoistic nationalism 7.5 Conclusion 154 8. Politics and Spectatorship 2: Young Men Viewing Terrorism and State Violence 8.1 Countenancing cinematic terrorism: young men take on the state 160		and its viewers	78
Responses to Dress and the Body 5.1 Show and sell: young viewers read clothing in Hindi films 5.2 Clothing, the body and the erotic promise of Hindi films 5.3 Conclusion 6. More or Less Spicy Kisses: Responses to Sex, Love and Sexuality 6.1 Contextualising the Indian media sex debate 6.2 Taboo scenes: kissing, sex and the 'innocent' viewer 6.3 Sexuality, chastity and national honour: 'being' Indian in Switzerland and various other sexual encounters 6.4 Conclusion: films, experience and meaning 7. Politics and Spectatorship 1: Viewing Love, Religion and Violence 7.1 Introduction 7.2 Films, viewers and the politics of Hindutva fascism 7.3 'Counterfeit collective memories': riots, religion and subjectivity in contemporary Hindi films 7.4 The pleasures and pitfalls of 'othering': inter-religious romance meets jingoistic nationalism 7.5 Conclusion 154 8. Politics and Spectatorship 2: Young Men Viewing Terrorism and State Violence 8.1 Countenancing cinematic terrorism: young men take on the state		4.4 Conclusion	88
Responses to Dress and the Body 5.1 Show and sell: young viewers read clothing in Hindi films 5.2 Clothing, the body and the erotic promise of Hindi films 5.3 Conclusion 6. More or Less Spicy Kisses: Responses to Sex, Love and Sexuality 6.1 Contextualising the Indian media sex debate 6.2 Taboo scenes: kissing, sex and the 'innocent' viewer 6.3 Sexuality, chastity and national honour: 'being' Indian in Switzerland and various other sexual encounters 6.4 Conclusion: films, experience and meaning 7. Politics and Spectatorship 1: Viewing Love, Religion and Violence 7.1 Introduction 7.2 Films, viewers and the politics of Hindutva fascism 7.3 'Counterfeit collective memories': riots, religion and subjectivity in contemporary Hindi films 7.4 The pleasures and pitfalls of 'othering': inter-religious romance meets jingoistic nationalism 7.5 Conclusion 154 8. Politics and Spectatorship 2: Young Men Viewing Terrorism and State Violence 8.1 Countenancing cinematic terrorism: young men take on the state
Responses to Dress and the Body 5.1 Show and sell: young viewers read clothing in Hindi films 5.2 Clothing, the body and the erotic promise of Hindi films 5.3 Conclusion 6. More or Less Spicy Kisses: Responses to Sex, Love and Sexuality 6.1 Contextualising the Indian media sex debate 6.2 Taboo scenes: kissing, sex and the 'innocent' viewer 6.3 Sexuality, chastity and national honour: 'being' Indian in Switzerland and various other sexual encounters 6.4 Conclusion: films, experience and meaning 7. Politics and Spectatorship 1: Viewing Love, Religion and Violence 7.1 Introduction 7.2 Films, viewers and the politics of Hindutva fascism 7.3 'Counterfeit collective memories': riots, religion and subjectivity in contemporary Hindi films 7.4 The pleasures and pitfalls of 'othering': inter-religious romance meets jingoistic nationalism 7.5 Conclusion 154 8. Politics and Spectatorship 2: Young Men Viewing Terrorism and State Violence 8.1 Countenancing cinematic terrorism: young men take on the state	5.	Short Skirts, Long Veils and Dancing Men:
5.1 Show and sell: young viewers read clothing in Hindi films 5.2 Clothing, the body and the erotic promise of Hindi films 5.3 Conclusion 6. More or Less Spicy Kisses: Responses to Sex, Love and Sexuality 6.1 Contextualising the Indian media sex debate 6.2 Taboo scenes: kissing, sex and the 'innocent' viewer 6.3 Sexuality, chastity and national honour: 'being' Indian in Switzerland and various other sexual encounters 7.1 Conclusion: films, experience and meaning 7.2 Films, viewers and the politics of Hindutva fascism 7.3 'Counterfeit collective memories': riots, religion and subjectivity in contemporary Hindi films 7.4 The pleasures and pitfalls of 'othering': inter-religious romance meets jingoistic nationalism 7.5 Conclusion 8. Politics and Spectatorship 2: Young Men Viewing Terrorism and State Violence 8.1 Countenancing cinematic terrorism: young men take on the state			91
5.2 Clothing, the body and the erotic promise of Hindi films 98 5.3 Conclusion 102 6. More or Less Spicy Kisses: Responses to Sex, Love and Sexuality 6.1 Contextualising the Indian media sex debate 6.2 Taboo scenes: kissing, sex and the 'innocent' viewer 6.3 Sexuality, chastity and national honour: 'being' Indian in Switzerland and various other sexual encounters 111 6.4 Conclusion: films, experience and meaning 126 7. Politics and Spectatorship 1: Viewing Love, Religion and Violence 130 7.2 Films, viewers and the politics of Hindutva fascism 7.3 'Counterfeit collective memories': riots, religion and subjectivity in contemporary Hindi films 135 7.4 The pleasures and pitfalls of 'othering': inter-religious romance meets jingoistic nationalism 147 7.5 Conclusion 154 8. Politics and Spectatorship 2: Young Men Viewing Terrorism and State Violence 8.1 Countenancing cinematic terrorism: young men take on the state
Hindi films 98 5.3 Conclusion 102 6. More or Less Spicy Kisses: Responses to Sex, Love and Sexuality 104 6.1 Contextualising the Indian media sex debate 104 6.2 Taboo scenes: kissing, sex and the 'innocent' viewer 106 6.3 Sexuality, chastity and national honour: 'being' Indian in Switzerland and various other sexual encounters 111 6.4 Conclusion: films, experience and meaning 126 7. Politics and Spectatorship 1: Viewing Love, Religion and Violence 130 7.2 Films, viewers and the politics of Hindutva fascism 132 7.3 'Counterfeit collective memories': riots, religion and subjectivity in contemporary Hindi films 135 7.4 The pleasures and pitfalls of 'othering': inter-religious romance meets jingoistic nationalism 147 7.5 Conclusion 154 8. Politics and Spectatorship 2: Young Men Viewing Terrorism and State Violence 160 8.1 Countenancing cinematic terrorism: young men take on the state 160		Hindi films	91
5.3 Conclusion 102 6. More or Less Spicy Kisses: Responses to Sex, Love and Sexuality 104 6.1 Contextualising the Indian media sex debate 104 6.2 Taboo scenes: kissing, sex and the 'innocent' viewer 106 6.3 Sexuality, chastity and national honour: 'being' Indian in Switzerland and various other sexual encounters 111 6.4 Conclusion: films, experience and meaning 126 7. Politics and Spectatorship 1: Viewing Love, Religion and Violence 130 7.2 Films, viewers and the politics of Hindutva fascism 132 7.3 'Counterfeit collective memories': riots, religion and subjectivity in contemporary Hindi films 135 7.4 The pleasures and pitfalls of 'othering': inter-religious romance meets jingoistic nationalism 147 7.5 Conclusion 154 8. Politics and Spectatorship 2: Young Men Viewing Terrorism and State Violence 160 8.1 Countenancing cinematic terrorism: young men take on the state 160		5.2 Clothing, the body and the erotic promise of
5.3 Conclusion 102 6. More or Less Spicy Kisses: Responses to Sex, Love and Sexuality 104 6.1 Contextualising the Indian media sex debate 104 6.2 Taboo scenes: kissing, sex and the 'innocent' viewer 106 6.3 Sexuality, chastity and national honour: 'being' Indian in Switzerland and various other sexual encounters 111 6.4 Conclusion: films, experience and meaning 126 7. Politics and Spectatorship 1: Viewing Love, Religion and Violence 130 7.2 Films, viewers and the politics of Hindutva fascism 132 7.3 'Counterfeit collective memories': riots, religion and subjectivity in contemporary Hindi films 135 7.4 The pleasures and pitfalls of 'othering': inter-religious romance meets jingoistic nationalism 147 7.5 Conclusion 154 8. Politics and Spectatorship 2: Young Men Viewing Terrorism and State Violence 160 8.1 Countenancing cinematic terrorism: young men take on the state 160		Hindi films	98
Love and Sexuality 6.1 Contextualising the Indian media sex debate 6.2 Taboo scenes: kissing, sex and the 'innocent' viewer 6.3 Sexuality, chastity and national honour: 'being' Indian in Switzerland and various other sexual encounters 6.4 Conclusion: films, experience and meaning 7.Politics and Spectatorship 1: Viewing Love, Religion and Violence 7.1 Introduction 7.2 Films, viewers and the politics of Hindutva fascism 7.3 'Counterfeit collective memories': riots, religion and subjectivity in contemporary Hindi films 7.4 The pleasures and pitfalls of 'othering': inter-religious romance meets jingoistic nationalism 7.5 Conclusion 7.6 Politics and Spectatorship 2: Young Men Viewing Terrorism and State Violence 8.1 Countenancing cinematic terrorism: young men take on the state			102
Love and Sexuality 6.1 Contextualising the Indian media sex debate 6.2 Taboo scenes: kissing, sex and the 'innocent' viewer 6.3 Sexuality, chastity and national honour: 'being' Indian in Switzerland and various other sexual encounters 6.4 Conclusion: films, experience and meaning 7.Politics and Spectatorship 1: Viewing Love, Religion and Violence 7.1 Introduction 7.2 Films, viewers and the politics of Hindutva fascism 7.3 'Counterfeit collective memories': riots, religion and subjectivity in contemporary Hindi films 7.4 The pleasures and pitfalls of 'othering': inter-religious romance meets jingoistic nationalism 7.5 Conclusion 7.6 Politics and Spectatorship 2: Young Men Viewing Terrorism and State Violence 8.1 Countenancing cinematic terrorism: young men take on the state
Love and Sexuality 6.1 Contextualising the Indian media sex debate 6.2 Taboo scenes: kissing, sex and the 'innocent' viewer 6.3 Sexuality, chastity and national honour: 'being' Indian in Switzerland and various other sexual encounters 6.4 Conclusion: films, experience and meaning 7.Politics and Spectatorship 1: Viewing Love, Religion and Violence 7.1 Introduction 7.2 Films, viewers and the politics of Hindutva fascism 7.3 'Counterfeit collective memories': riots, religion and subjectivity in contemporary Hindi films 7.4 The pleasures and pitfalls of 'othering': inter-religious romance meets jingoistic nationalism 7.5 Conclusion 7.6 Politics and Spectatorship 2: Young Men Viewing Terrorism and State Violence 8.1 Countenancing cinematic terrorism: young men take on the state	6.	More or Less Spicy Kisses: Responses to Sex.
6.1 Contextualising the Indian media sex debate 6.2 Taboo scenes: kissing, sex and the 'innocent' viewer 6.3 Sexuality, chastity and national honour: 'being' Indian in Switzerland and various other sexual encounters 111 6.4 Conclusion: films, experience and meaning 126 7. Politics and Spectatorship 1: Viewing Love, Religion and Violence 130 7.1 Introduction 130 7.2 Films, viewers and the politics of Hindutva fascism 7.3 'Counterfeit collective memories': riots, religion and subjectivity in contemporary Hindi films 135 7.4 The pleasures and pitfalls of 'othering': inter-religious romance meets jingoistic nationalism 147 7.5 Conclusion 154 8. Politics and Spectatorship 2: Young Men Viewing Terrorism and State Violence 8.1 Countenancing cinematic terrorism: young men take on the state 160	A. T		104
 6.2 Taboo scenes: kissing, sex and the 'innocent' viewer 6.3 Sexuality, chastity and national honour: 'being' Indian in Switzerland and various other sexual encounters 6.4 Conclusion: films, experience and meaning 7. Politics and Spectatorship 1: Viewing Love, Religion and Violence 7.1 Introduction 7.2 Films, viewers and the politics of Hindutva fascism 7.3 'Counterfeit collective memories': riots, religion and subjectivity in contemporary Hindi films 7.4 The pleasures and pitfalls of 'othering': inter-religious romance meets jingoistic nationalism 7.5 Conclusion 8. Politics and Spectatorship 2: Young Men Viewing Terrorism and State Violence 8.1 Countenancing cinematic terrorism: young men take on the state 	TOT		104
6.3 Sexuality, chastity and national honour: 'being' Indian in Switzerland and various other sexual encounters 111 6.4 Conclusion: films, experience and meaning 126 7. Politics and Spectatorship 1: Viewing Love, Religion and Violence 130 7.1 Introduction 130 7.2 Films, viewers and the politics of Hindutva fascism 132 7.3 'Counterfeit collective memories': riots, religion and subjectivity in contemporary Hindi films 135 7.4 The pleasures and pitfalls of 'othering': inter-religious romance meets jingoistic nationalism 147 7.5 Conclusion 154 8. Politics and Spectatorship 2: Young Men Viewing Terrorism and State Violence 8.1 Countenancing cinematic terrorism: young men take on the state	50.5		106 encounters 6.4 Conclusion: films, experience and meaning 126 7. Politics and Spectatorship 1: Viewing Love, Religion and Violence 130 7.1 Introduction 130 7.2 Films, viewers and the politics of Hindutva fascism 132 7.3 'Counterfeit collective memories': riots, religion and subjectivity in contemporary Hindi films 135 7.4 The pleasures and pitfalls of 'othering': inter-religious romance meets jingoistic nationalism 147 7.5 Conclusion 154 8. Politics and Spectatorship 2: Young Men Viewing Terrorism and State Violence 160 8.1 Countenancing cinematic terrorism: young men take on the state
 6.4 Conclusion: films, experience and meaning 7. Politics and Spectatorship 1: Viewing Love, Religion and Violence 7.1 Introduction 7.2 Films, viewers and the politics of Hindutva fascism 7.3 'Counterfeit collective memories': riots, religion and subjectivity in contemporary Hindi films 7.4 The pleasures and pitfalls of 'othering': inter-religious romance meets jingoistic nationalism 7.5 Conclusion 8. Politics and Spectatorship 2: Young Men Viewing Terrorism and State Violence 8.1 Countenancing cinematic terrorism: young men take on the state 		Indian in Switzerland and various other sexual
 7. Politics and Spectatorship 1: Viewing Love, Religion and Violence 7.1 Introduction 7.2 Films, viewers and the politics of Hindutva fascism 7.3 'Counterfeit collective memories': riots, religion and subjectivity in contemporary Hindi films 7.4 The pleasures and pitfalls of 'othering': inter-religious romance meets jingoistic nationalism 7.5 Conclusion 147 7.6 Politics and Spectatorship 2: Young Men Viewing Terrorism and State Violence 8.1 Countenancing cinematic terrorism: young men take on the state 160 	US	encounters	111
and Violence 7.1 Introduction 7.2 Films, viewers and the politics of Hindutva fascism 7.3 'Counterfeit collective memories': riots, religion and subjectivity in contemporary Hindi films 7.4 The pleasures and pitfalls of 'othering': inter-religious romance meets jingoistic nationalism 7.5 Conclusion 147 7.5 Conclusion 154 8. Politics and Spectatorship 2: Young Men Viewing Terrorism and State Violence 8.1 Countenancing cinematic terrorism: young men take on the state 160		6.4 Conclusion: films, experience and meaning	126
and Violence 7.1 Introduction 7.2 Films, viewers and the politics of Hindutva fascism 7.3 'Counterfeit collective memories': riots, religion and subjectivity in contemporary Hindi films 7.4 The pleasures and pitfalls of 'othering': inter-religious romance meets jingoistic nationalism 7.5 Conclusion 147 7.5 Conclusion 154 8. Politics and Spectatorship 2: Young Men Viewing Terrorism and State Violence 8.1 Countenancing cinematic terrorism: young men take on the state 160			5.5
and Violence 7.1 Introduction 7.2 Films, viewers and the politics of Hindutva fascism 7.3 'Counterfeit collective memories': riots, religion and subjectivity in contemporary Hindi films 7.4 The pleasures and pitfalls of 'othering': inter-religious romance meets jingoistic nationalism 7.5 Conclusion 147 7.5 Conclusion 154 8. Politics and Spectatorship 2: Young Men Viewing Terrorism and State Violence 8.1 Countenancing cinematic terrorism: young men take on the state 160	7.	Politics and Spectatorship 1: Viewing Love, Religion
 7.1 Introduction 7.2 Films, viewers and the politics of Hindutva fascism 7.3 'Counterfeit collective memories': riots, religion and subjectivity in contemporary Hindi films 7.4 The pleasures and pitfalls of 'othering': inter-religious romance meets jingoistic nationalism 7.5 Conclusion 8. Politics and Spectatorship 2: Young Men Viewing Terrorism and State Violence 8.1 Countenancing cinematic terrorism: young men take on the state 160 			130
 7.2 Films, viewers and the politics of Hindutva fascism 7.3 'Counterfeit collective memories': riots, religion and subjectivity in contemporary Hindi films 7.4 The pleasures and pitfalls of 'othering': inter-religious romance meets jingoistic nationalism 7.5 Conclusion 8. Politics and Spectatorship 2: Young Men Viewing Terrorism and State Violence 8.1 Countenancing cinematic terrorism: young men take on the state
 7.3 'Counterfeit collective memories': riots, religion and subjectivity in contemporary Hindi films 135 7.4 The pleasures and pitfalls of 'othering': inter-religious romance meets jingoistic nationalism 147 7.5 Conclusion 154 8. Politics and Spectatorship 2: Young Men Viewing Terrorism and State Violence 160 8.1 Countenancing cinematic terrorism: young men take on the state 160 			132 and subjectivity in contemporary Hindi films 7.4 The pleasures and pitfalls of 'othering': inter-religious romance meets jingoistic nationalism 7.5 Conclusion 8. Politics and Spectatorship 2: Young Men Viewing Terrorism and State Violence 8.1 Countenancing cinematic terrorism: young men take on the state 135 147 154
 7.4 The pleasures and pitfalls of 'othering': inter-religious romance meets jingoistic nationalism 147 7.5 Conclusion 154 8. Politics and Spectatorship 2: Young Men Viewing Terrorism and State Violence 160 8.1 Countenancing cinematic terrorism: young men take on the state 160 			135 romance meets jingoistic nationalism 7.5 Conclusion 8. Politics and Spectatorship 2: Young Men Viewing Terrorism and State Violence 8.1 Countenancing cinematic terrorism: young men take on the state 160
8. Politics and Spectatorship 2: Young Men Viewing Terrorism and State Violence 8.1 Countenancing cinematic terrorism: young men take on the state 160	4.0		147
Terrorism and State Violence 8.1 Countenancing cinematic terrorism: young men take on the state 160			154
Terrorism and State Violence 8.1 Countenancing cinematic terrorism: young men take on the state 160
Terrorism and State Violence 8.1 Countenancing cinematic terrorism: young men take on the state 160	8.	Politics and Spectatorship 2: Young Men Viewing
8.1 Countenancing cinematic terrorism: young men take on the state 160	21		160
take on the state 160
	312		160
8.2 Conclusion 166	8.3	8.2 Conclusion	166

9. Conclusion: The Tricky Politics of Viewing Pleasure	167
9.1 Looking back at texts and audiences	167
9.2 Looking back at gender, sexuality and spectatorship	p 170
9.3 Politics and spectatorship	173
9.4 India and the United Kingdom	175
9.5 A note of caution	177
9.6 Implications for the future	178
Notes	181
Bibliography
Filmography	198
Index	201