

Contents

Preface	vii
Notes on Romanization	xi
List of Illustrations	xii

PART I: SOCIOECONOMIC DEVELOPMENT AND NEO-CONFUCIANISM

1. Social Change during the Koryŏ-Chosŏn Transition	3
2. The Socioeconomic Background of Neo-Confucianism in Fifteenth- and Sixteenth-Century Korea	23
3. New Socioeconomic Trends in Fifteenth- and Sixteenth-Century Korea: Population Increase and Cultivation of the Lowlands	49
4. The Influence of Neo-Confucianism on Population Growth in Fourteenth- to Sixteenth-Century Korea	67

PART II: INTERNATIONAL RELATIONS IN A PERIOD OF HISTORICAL TRANSITION

5. Economic Transformation and Sociopolitical Trends in Sixteenth-Century East Asia	93
6. Separating Fact from Fiction about Pre-Modern Sino-Korean Trade	121
7. Chosŏn's Adoption of International Law and Its Conflicts with China in the 1880s	139

8. Forced Treaties and Japan's Annexation of the Great Han Empire: An Argument
for the Illegality of the Annexation 165

PART III: MODERNIZATION AND CONFUCIANISM

9. King Chǒngjo: Confucianism, Enlightenment, and Absolute Rule 207
10. Seoul's Modern Urban Development During the Eighteenth and Nineteenth Centuries 235
11. The Leaders and Objectives of the Seoul
Urban Renovation Project of 1896-1904 269

PART IV: OVERCOMING THE DISTORTIONS OF KOREAN HISTORY

12. Why Has Yangban Culture
Been Denounced? 295
13. Was Early Modern Korea Really a
"Hermit Kingdom"? 325
14. Korean Historiography's Escape from Modernism 351
- Notes on Original Appearance 371
- Translators 373
- Glossary of Names 375
- Glossary of Terms 379
- Index 391