
Contents

Preface	x
PART ONE
The 21st century presents itself	1
1 The pandemic and the contradictions of contemporaneity	3
The end of presentism	3
All that is solid melts into air	4
The scale of the planet viewed by the virus	8
Metaphors in progress	10
The coronavirus, our contemporary	16
2 Abyssal capitalism: The pandemic as business	24
Scene 1. Profiting from the pandemic	26
Scene 2. Buccaneer capitalism	29
Scene 3. Profiting from the post-pandemic: the legal industry and big business	31
Scene 4. The value of life and medical and pharmaceutical research: investments, the cost of tests, vaccines, medicines and Big Pharma	35
Conclusion	48
3 The open veins of inequality and discrimination	58
Introduction	58
Economic abyssal lines	59
Racist-colonialist abyssal lines	65
Sexist abyssal lines	71
Religious abyssal lines	76
Ableist abyssal lines	77
Gray or intermediate exclusion areas	78
The degree zero of human tragedy	83

4	Community resistance and self-organization	92
	Community resistance 92
	Rural and urban popular organizations in Latin America faced with abandonment by the state 96
	The indigenous peoples of Latin America 104
	Best practices of sub-national or autonomous political-administrative units 111
	Conclusion 119
PART TWO
	The future starts now	127
5	Three scenarios: Between hell redux and kairós	129
	First scenario: everything as before and worse. Abyssal capitalism and the securitarian state of exception 130
	Second scenario: capitalist skin, socialist mask: the new neo-Keynesianism 134
	Third scenario: barbarism or civilization – alternatives to capitalism, colonialism and patriarchy 139
6	Towards an insurgent, intercultural and cosmopolitan declaration of human rights and duties	149
	Introduction 149
	Rights and duties to be shared in a conversation for humankind: a legal real utopia 152*
	Conclusion 167
7	The paradigmatic transition: A world to accommodate many worlds	170
	The principles of transition 175
	Monocultures 176
	Ecologies 180
	Conclusion 190
8	First steps in the paradigmatic transition	193
	Nature does not belong to us: we belong to nature 193
	Health is a public good, not a business 197
	Without losing their respective identities, cities must be ruralized and the country must be urbanized 198
	Culture and art – understood as ecologies of multiple and intercultural artistic and cultural practices – are an essential component of the paradigmatic transition 199

We cannot live without demodiversity any more than we can live without biodiversity 203

In a time of intermittent pandemic, international relations must be guided by the principle of overriding public interest in the defense of life 206

Conclusion 209

Epilogue: What if we failed? To be read in 2050 212

References 217

Index 237