

Table of Contents

Preface	xv
An Overview of the Parts and Chapters	xxiv
Acknowledgments.....	xxix
1. Introduction: Christ, the Logos of Creation.....	1
1. The Pros and Cons of the Standard Translation.....	5
2. The Verbal Ontology of J. G. Hamann.....	10
3. Ambiguities of the Word.....	17
4. Theological Metaphysics?.....	20
5. A Response to Critics.....	27
6. Metaphysics and Phenomenology.....	38
7. Analogical (Chalcedonian) Metaphysics.....	44
Part I—After Barth: The Recovery of Analogical Metaphysics.....	53
2. Erich Przywara and Karl Barth: The Debate about the Analogia Entis	55
1. Barth–Przywara: First Encounters.....	58
2. The Prehistory of the Analogia Entis	63
3. The Analogia Entis and Natural Theology	69
4. “Dynamic Polarity”: The Augustinian Rhythm of the Analogia Entis	76
5. Religionsphilosophie katholischer Theologie (1927).....	82
6. After Barth: Some Final Clarifications.....	89
3. Analogy and Theo-Foundational Epistemology: The Problem, Possibility, and Reality of Theological Knowledge.....	109
1. The Problem of Theological Epistemology.....	112
2. Barth’s Critique of (Philosophical) Analogy and Catholic Epistemology	117
3. A Modest Response and Proposal.....	122
4. The Analogia Entis as Negative Apologetics.....	127
5. The Analogical Reality of Theological Knowledge.....	136
6. The Dialectical Analogy of Theological Epistemology.....	142
7. Return to the Way: Or the Method of Theological Knowledge.....	144
8. Toward an Ecumenical Epistemology.....	150

Part II—Analogical Metaphysics and Christian Doctrine.....	157
4. Analogical Metaphysics and Trinitarian Theology.....	159
1. Toward a More Adequate Method: The Complications of Philosophy and Theology.....	160
2. Analogical Metaphysics.....	167
3. The Threshold.....	172
4. From Analogical Metaphysics to Trinitarian Theology.....	176
5. A Modest Ecumenical Proposal.....	188
6. Back to Augustine.....	193
7. Conclusion.....	196
5. The Metaphysics of Chalcedon: Christ as the Concrete Analogia Entis	201
1. Analogy or Paradox?.....	205
2. The Metaphysics of Chalcedon.....	210
3. Analogy as Agape.....	218
4. Agape as Commercium	225
5. Conclusion.....	229
6. From Image to Likeness: An Essay in Analogical Anthropology.....	231
1. Homo Analogia : Between Promise and Fulfillment.....	238
2. Homo Analogia : Between Heaven and Earth.....	242
3. Homo Analogia : Between Image and Likeness.....	249
4. Toward a More Adequate Anthropology.....	254
5. The Christological Intersection of Metaphysics and Anthropology.....	261
6. Deeper and Higher: The Mystery of the Imago Dei	269
7. Homo Spiritualis : De Lubac's Recovery of a Tripartite Anthropology.....	284
8. The Oblivion and Recovery of the Whole Human Being.....	295
9. Divine and Human: Analogical Identities.....	301
10. Conclusion: A Mystical-Metaphysical Anthropology.....	309
Part III—Analogical Solutions to Disputed Questions.....	317
7. The Analogy of Nature and Grace: Between Neo-Thomism and Nouvelle Théologie	319
1. Toward a More Catholic Approach.....	321
1.1. Bernard Lonergan.....	322

1.2. Fields and Hütter: Toward an Analogical Solution	325
2. Przywara: Between De Lubac and Neo-Thomism	329
2.1. The Unity of the Natural and the Supernatural (1923)	332
2.2. Gratia non destruit, sed supponit et perficit naturam (1941)	344
2.3. Nature and Reason in Aquinas	351
3. The Analogical Crux of Nature and Grace	354
8. The Humility of God: On a Disputed Question in Trinitarian Theology	361
1. A Brief History of Kenosis in the German Tradition	365
2. The Question of Balthasar's Kenotic Theology	371
3. Thomistic Criticism	376
4. The Analogia Entis and Trinitarian Doctrine	379
5. The Heart of the Matter: The Question of Divine Humility	385
6. Przywara: Between Thomas and Balthasar	392
7. Conclusion: A Palinode to Divine Humility	400
Part IV—Toward a More Catholic Metaphysics	407
9. The Analogia Entis in Erich Przywara and Ferdinand Ulrich: Toward a More Catholic Metaphysics	409
1. Theology as the Guardian of Metaphysics	411
2. Catholic Metaphysics and Its Antagonists	412
3. Balthasar's Theo-Logic : Between Przywara and Ulrich	414
4. Przywara's Reading of the Real Distinction	418
5. Ulrich's Reading of the Real Distinction	423
6. Conclusion	427
10. The Circle of Analogy: Metaphysics, Christology, Anthropology	433
1. Metaphysics, Christology, Anthropology	439
2. Minimal and Maximal Analogy	443
3. From Predicamental to Transcendental Analogy	446
4. With and Beyond Barth and Heidegger	449
5. Analogy as Katology	453
6. Conclusion	458
11. Christ, the Logos of Creation	461
1. The Logos and the Analogy of Being	466

2. After Barth and Heidegger: The Analogy of Philosophy and Theology.....	468
3. Toward a More Ecumenical Epistemology.....	475
4. Analogy in Dogmatic Theology.....	478
4.1. Analogy and Trinitarian Theology.....	478
4.2. Analogy in Christology.....	484
4.3. Analogy in Anthropology.....	489
5. Analogical Solutions: Toward a More Catholic Theology, Church, and Metaphysics.....	491
6. Conclusion.....	500
Bibliography.....	509
Index.....	539