

Contents

Preface	x
Acknowledgements	xiii
Outline	1
Chapter 1. Methodological credentials of human dignity in the law	2
Chapter 2. Philosophy: the personalist conception of human action and respect proper to persons	3
Chapter 3. Law: the status of personhood and the dignitarian moment	4
Chapter 4. Politics: institutions and the status of personhood	5
1 Methodological credentials of human dignity in the law	7
Introduction	7
1 Three methodological commitments as a point of departure	10
1.1 The prima facie function of human dignity	10
1.2 The problem of consensus and metaphysical parsimony in law	14
1.3 Law and reality	16
2 Defining and explicating human dignity in the law	21
2.1 The questions of definition	22
2.2 The rules of explication	26
3 The dignitarian moment in the law	31
3.1 The foundational function	32
3.2 The regulative function	34
3.3 The heuristic function	46
3.4 The meta-legal level	49
3.5 Toward interpretation of the dignitarian moment	52
Conclusion	56

2	Philosophy: the personalist conception of human action and affirmation proper to persons	65
	Introduction	65
	1 Mapping personalism: the Personalist Postulate	67
	2 Securing personalism: empirical basis and empirical relevance	72
	3 Ontology: human action as the actus personae	77
	3.1 Self-determination and vertical transcendence	79
	3.2 Self-possession and self-governance as the experiential component of human freedom	82
	3.3 Reference to truth as the condition of transcendence and fulfilment: the role of integration	87
	4 Normativity: affirmation of persons	92
	4.1 The personalist value of the actus personae and dignity of the person	94
	4.2 The moral duty: source, content, and structure of moral judgement	98
	Conclusion	104
3	Law: the status of personhood and the dignitarian moment	110
	Introduction	110
	1 The suppositum humanum in legal inquiries	112
	1.1 The 'praxiological' and the 'ethical' interpretation of human dignity in the law	114
	1.2 The praxiological reading and the autonomy of human dignity in the law	118
	2 The realism of the SPT: the ontological referral and reflective equilibrium	121
	3 Human dignity as the status of personhood	127
	3.1 Dignitarian legal interests of the human person	127
	3.2 The Principle of the Status of Personhood as an explication of human dignity in the law: the status of personhood as a status-expressing principle	152
	3.3 The Principle of the Status of Personhood, wide reflective equilibrium, and the issue of explaining the dignitarian moment in the law	164
	Conclusion	170
4	Politics: institutions and the status of personhood	176
	Introduction	176
	1 The status of personhood, participation, and the idea of decent law	180
	1.1 The Principle of the Status of Personhood and genuine participation	180
	1.2 Decency of law and the public order	185

2	Normative indeterminacy and the principles of adjudication	194
2.1	Basic assumptions concerning adjudication	195
2.2	The personalist meaning to equal dignity	197
2.3	Hard cases and easy cases: toward a theory of error	205
3	Decent law, social engineering, and the principles of legislation	222
3.1	Toward dignitarian unity of a legal system: legal personhood	223
3.2	Legislative standards for decent law and the threats of 'law as engineering'	226
	Conclusion	232
	Philosophical conclusions	234
	Jurisprudential conclusions	234
	Political conclusions	235
	Information on the Alexis de Tocqueville Centre of Political and Legal Thought	237
	Index	238