

CONTENTS

Acknowledgments ix

Introduction: "Shop Windows," "Cultural Embassies," and Hollywood's Global Exhibition 1

PART I.

Europe. When Expansion was Paramount (1923–1993):

"Shop Window" Cinemas and the European Expansion of U.S. Film Exhibitors

1. Hollywood's British Invasion and the Battle of Birmingham,
1919–1929 29
2. Hollywood's European Adventure, 1925–1941 48
3. A New Battleground: U.S. Exhibitors Under Nazi Occupation,
1941–1945 64
4. Postwar Europe and the Legacy of Hollywood Cinemas,
1945–1993 76

PART II.

Australasia. Banking on Australasia (1930–1982):

Global Banks and U.S. Cinema Ownership in Australia and New Zealand

5. Fox Chases Hoyts: U.S. Cinema Ownership in Australia, 1930–1936 93

6. The Fox Chase in New Zealand and Australia, 1936–1946 116
7. Hollywood and Australasian Cinemas, 1946–1982 129

PART III.

Latin America and the Caribbean. Hollywood in Cinelandia (1927–1973):
U.S. Cinemas and Local Politics in Latin America and the Caribbean

8. Cine Metros y Cine Paramounts, 1926–1941: MGM and Paramount's Latin American Shop Window Cinemas 147
9. Prop(aganda) Window Cinemas, 1933–1945: Ufa, Hollywood, and the Battle for Hearts and Minds Through South American
Cinemas During World War II 160
10. Hollywood Cinema Expansion in Postwar South America,
1945–1973 168
11. Caribbean Dreams, 1929–1973: Hollywood Cinemas in Cuba,
Jamaica, Puerto Rico, and Trinidad 182

PART IV.

Middle East. Hollywood's Muddle East (1925–1982):
Political Change in Egypt and Israel and the Consequences for Hollywood's Middle Eastern Cinemas

12. Buildings, Ballyhoo, and Boycotts in Egypt, 1925–1947:
Alternating Realities at Hollywood's Egyptian Cinemas 209
13. No Meeting in the Middle, 1947–1956: Hollywood Cinemas,
Egyptian Revolution, and Israeli Independence 225
14. After the Revolution, 1957–1982: Twentieth Century-Fox,
Egypt, and Israel 248

PART V.

Africa. An "Unhappy Image of the United States Before an African Population" (1932–1975): Race, Industry, and Rebellion at Hollywood's
African Cinemas

15. MGM and the "Uncrowned King of South Africa," 1932–1937:
Hollywood Shop Window Cinemas in a Bitterly Protected
Market 269
16. Fox Hunting on the African Continent, 1937–1956: Twentieth
Century-Fox and the Struggle for Control of African Cinemas 279

17. A “Royal” Mess: Racial Strife in Colonial Zimbabwe, the Struggle for Independence in Postcolonial Kenya, and the End of Hollywood’s Control of South African Cinemas, 1959–1975 293

PART VI.

Asia. Eastern Promises (1927–2013):

Hollywood’s Cinemas in China, India, Japan, and the Philippines

18. Benshi and Ballyhoo, 1927–1973: Hollywood’s Shop Window Cinemas in Japan and the Philippines 333
19. Joining the Global Metro Cub Club, 1936–1973: MGM and Fox’s Shop Window Cinemas in India 346
20. China as Hollywood’s Final Frontier, 1946–2013: Hollywood’s Chinese Cinemas and the End of Hollywood’s Exhibition Empires 361

Epilogue: Global Exhibition Flows in Reverse Before the Pandemic, 2013–2019 380

Notes 393

Index 469