

Contents

Why Consider Opposing Viewpoints?	11
Introduction	14
Chapter 1: What Is the Relationship Between Religion and Extremist Acts?
Chapter Preface	18
1. Terrorism Is an Inherent Aspect of Islamic Extremism Neil J. Kressel	20
2. Terrorism Is Not an Inherent Aspect of Islamic Extremism Fareed Zakaria	29
3. Terrorism Is Practiced by Non-Muslims Mehdi Hasan	40
4. The Christian Right Is Extremist Jan G. Linn	46
5. The Christian Right Is Not Extremist Sarah Pulliam	52
Periodical Bibliography	57
Chapter 2: What Motivates Islamic Extremists?
Chapter Preface	59
1. Islamic Extremists Are Motivated by Moral Disgust Azeem Ibrahim	61
2. Islamic Extremists Are Motivated by Social and Psychological Needs Jessica Stern	66

3. Islamic Jihad Requires Killing the Enemy 75
Bill Musk

4. Suicide Bombers Are Motivated by Social Rather than Religious Injustice 84
Nichole Argo

Periodical Bibliography 97

Chapter 3: How Can Extremism Be Countered?

Chapter Preface 99

1. Extremists Can Be Persuaded to Change 101
Ed Husain

2. Extremists Cannot Be Persuaded to Change 107
Carol Sarler

3. Fundamentalist Islamic Schools Teach Extremism 113
Samir Khalil Samir

4. Islamic Schools Can Counter Extremism 121
Jay Tolson

Periodical Bibliography 128

Chapter 4: How Is Extremism Apparent in the United States?

Chapter Preface 130

1. Extremist Animal Rights Activists Are Terrorists 132
P. Michael Conn and James V. Parker

2. Extremist Animal Rights Activists Are Not Terrorists 144
Ben (Roger Panaman)

3. Extremist Pro-Life Groups Are Responsible for the Murder of George Tiller 151
Jill Filipovic

4. Extremist Pro-Life Groups Are Not Responsible for the Murder of George Tiller James Kirchick	160
5. Pro-Life Extremists Are Characterized by a Fanatical Commitment Jon A. Shields	166
Periodical Bibliography	174
For Further Discussion	175
Organizations to Contact	177
Bibliography of Books	185
Index	189