There are 40 Photocopiable Activities – one for every main Student's Book lesson. They are designed to consolidate the material covered in the Student's Book lesson in an engaging and communicative way. Most of the activities provide practice in the grammar or vocabulary of the lesson, and all give your students the opportunity to describe, explain, speculate, debate, and question in English. The Teacher's Notes provide full guidance in using the activities as well as all the answers.

There are 15 Photocopiable Worksheets to use with the Student's DVD in class. They allow you to fully exploit the documentary clips and authentic interviews with your students. The Teacher's Notes provide step-by-step instructions and answers.

Tips for using the Activities

- The activities can be used at various times depending on your preference. They can be used during the lesson to change the focus and pace of the class, at the end to conclude the lesson, at the beginning of the next class as a warmer, or later in the course as revision.
- Where activities require cutting up we have often suggested a non-cut alternative. If we haven't given an alternative suggestion, you can usually adapt the activity to suit your class.
- When students are working in pairs it is a good idea to get them to sit face to face. This will encourage them to talk to each other and also means they won't be able to see their partner's sheet.
- If your class doesn't divide easily into pairs or groups, get two students to share one role, or join in yourself.
- We have suggested the length of time each activity should take, but you can extend most activities by, for example, swapping partners and repeating the activity, or getting students to write some of the sentences they have practised.

Tips for using the DVD Worksheets

- The DVD worksheets provide a clear sequence of activities, but don't feel you need to do all of the activities on every worksheet – use them flexibly to suit your class.
- We have made additional suggestions for making the most of the DVD in the Teacher's Notes, including ideas for further Internet research and useful language to focus on.
- Sometimes it can be useful and enjoyable to allow students to watch the DVD without a worksheet.
- Feel free to use the DVD in other imaginative ways. For example, turn the sound down and get students to predict what the narrator is saying. Or turn the picture off and get students to guess what they will see based just on the sound.
