

CONTENTS

Introduction: Hard-Hearted Liberalism	1
The Intellectual Options Today	2
Liberals, Civil Libertarians, and Liberalism	9
The Free Speech Story	14
Self-Abstraction and Stoicism	22
The Method of Perversity	25
Chapter 1. Saint Paul's Shudder	29
The Puzzle of Paul	29
The Case of Meat at Corinth	36
The Privilege of the Other	45
In Praise of Impersonality	50
Hosting Dangerous Discourse	56
Stoic, Rhetorician, Jew	64
Chapter 2. "Evil Be Thou My Good": Milton and Abyss-Redemption	68
Areopagitica , a Misplaced Classic	68
Provoking Objects	74
Scouting into the Regions of Sin	78
Dramatis Personae	83
The Morality of Transgression	97
Chapter 3. Publicity and Pain	100
The Public Realm as Sublimation	103
Locke's Project of Self-Discipline	110
Adam Smith and the Fortunate Impossibility of Sympathy	114
Mill and the Historical Recession of Pain	123
Stoic Ear, Romantic Voice	130
Publicity and Pain	136
Chapter 4. Homeopathic Machismo in Free Speech Theory	142
The Traumatophilic First Amendment	142
Holmes and Hardness	146
Brandeis and Noxious Doctrine	152
Skokie Subjectivity	155
Hardball Public Space and the Suspended Soul	166
Impersonality, or Openness to Strangeness	175

viii CONTENTS

Chapter 5. Social Science as Public Communication	181
Positivism as Civic Discipline	182
The Arts of Chaste Discourse	187
Democracy and Numbers	191
Objectivity and Self-Mortification	196
Medical Composure	203
Ways to Rehearse Death	208
Chapter 6. "Watch, Therefore": Suffering and the Informed Citizen	215
Catharsis	217
Compassion	222
Courage	228
Pity and Its Critics	232
News and the Everlasting Now	240
Chapter 7. "Meekness as a Dangerous Activity": Witnessing as Participation	247
Witnessing with the Body	249
Witnessing from Captivity	257
Persons as Objects	260
Martin Luther King's Principled Passivity	265
Transcendental Buffoonery	272
Democracy and Imperfection	279
Conclusion: Responsibility to Things That Are Not	284
The Sustainability of Free Expression	284
The Wages of Stoicism	289
Afterword	295
Acknowledgments	297
Index	299