

Contents

PREFACE TO THE SECOND EDITION	page xiii
PREFACE TO THE FIRST EDITION	xv
1. SOCIOLOGICAL THEORY	1
I. Introduction	1
II. Theory and practice	3
A. Theory can generate ideas	3
B. Theory can suggest models	4
C. Critical analysis of theories	6
D. Theories suggest hypotheses	7
III. Types of theory and typologies of theory	10
IV. Why theorize?	12
Key concepts; Topics for discussion; Essay questions; For further reading and study	15
2. KEY THEORETICAL PROBLEMS	17
I. Order, stability, and change	17
A. Order	17
B. Stability and change	21
II. Subjective and objective	23
III. The place of the individual in sociological theory	26
IV. Function and cause	29
V. Sociological theory and values	32
VI. History and sociological theory	34
Key concepts; Topics for discussion; Essay questions; For further reading and study	36
3. TYPES OF THEORY IN SOCIOLOGY AND THE PROBLEM OF VERIFICATION	38
I. Introduction	38
II. Explanation, an ideal	38
III. How explanations have been judged	39
IV. Description and explanation	40
A. Observational terms	40
B. Constructs	41

1. Primitive terms and analogies	41
2. Primitive terms, analogies, and descriptions	47
C. Explanatory terms	48
V. Description and explanation: a summary	50
VI. Types of theories	51
A. Deductive theories	51
B. Pattern theories	56
1. Reductionism: changing the form of a theory	58
C. Perspectives	59
VII. Verification of theories	60
A. Verification of deductive theories	60
B. Verification of pattern theories	63
VIII. Conclusion	64
Key concepts; Topics for discussion; essay questions; For further reading and study	65
 4. EXCHANGE THEORY	 67
I. Introduction	67
II. Sociological use of the term "exchange"	67
III. A general statement of the principles of sociological exchange theory	70
A. The unit of analysis	71
B. Motive	71
C. Profit	72
D. Voluntarism	73
E. Social approval	73
IV. General theory of social order based on exchange fundamentals	74
A. Ranking and value	75
B. Value is comparative	75
C. "Explaining" the group	75
V. Deductive exchange theory—G. C. Homans's propositions	78
A. The propositions	79
B. The deductions	83
C. The institutional and subinstitutional in Homans's theory	85
VI. Exchange and the social psychology of groups: Thibaut and Kelley	87
VII. Exchange and power: Blau's use of exchange principles	91
A. Blau's interest in exchange	91
B. Unbalanced exchanges: some consequences	92

C. Kinds of rewards and kinds of relationships	93
D. Microstructures and macrostructures	95
1. Values and social structure	96
E. Additional analogies to economic theory used by Blau	97
1. The law of diminishing marginal utility	98
2. Indifference curves	98
3. Bilateral monopoly—the two-person exchange	100
VIII. Representative research arising out of exchange theory	102
IX. Some critical remarks about exchange theory	104
A. Is exchange theory falsifiable?	105
B. Can the “supply” of value be quantified?	106
C. Insensitivity of exchange to structural sociological explanation	108
D. Exchange theory’s model of man	109
E. Explaining the group	110
X. Conclusion	112
Key concepts; Topics for discussion; Essay questions; For further reading and study	113
 5. FUNCTIONALISM	 116
I. Introduction	116
II. Functional model	117
A. Function	117
B. Structure	118
1. Levels of structure	118
2. Systems	119
C. Integration	122
1. Social evolution	122
2. Functional requisites	124
D. Equilibrium	126
1. Equilibrium, social evolution, and social change	127
E. Values	128
1. Socialization and motivation	129
F. What kind of explanation does functionalism give?	129
1. Pattern theory, categorical thinking, and reality	129
2. Functionalism as ideology	130
III. Robert Merton and functionalism	131
A. Structures	132

	1. Goals and means to success	132
	B. Integration	133
	C. The typology of modes of individual adaptation	134
	D. Function and dysfunction	134
IV.	M. J. Levy and structural-functional requisite analysis	135
	A. Levy's empirical emphasis	135
	B. What functions are required?	136
	C. Functional requisites	137
	D. Functional requisites and role differentiation	138
V.	Functionalism's treatment of stratification as motivation	140
	A. Stratification	141
	B. Stratification and values	142
VI.	Talcott Parsons	143
	A. The objective	144
	B. Early ingredients of the Parsonsian system	145
	1. Voluntarism	145
	2. Rationality	145
	3. Value-attitudes	145
	4. Preliminary synthesis	146
	C. Systems and environments	147
	1. The pattern variables	148
	2. System problems	149
	D. What kinds of systems are there?	153
	E. Cybernetic relations among the four parts of the general system	157
	F. Social evolution	161
VII.	Research and functionalism	165
	A. Levels of research	165
	B. Research on functional alternatives	166
	C. Research on types of communities and societies	168
	D. Research on social evolution	169
VIII.	Critical remarks about functional theory	172
	A. Is functionalism a theory or a model?	172
	B. Criticisms of functionalism as a theory	173
	1. Logical and theoretical criticisms	173
	C. Criticism of the substance of functional theory	177
	1. The oversocialized concept of man	178
	2. Power, force, and voluntarism	178
	3. Change and conflict	179
	4. Criticisms of the theory of stratification	180
	5. Is functionalism conservative?	181

IX. Conclusion	182
Key concepts; Topics for discussion; Essay questions; For further reading and study	183
6. SYMBOLIC INTERACTIONISM	186
I. Introduction	186
II. The perspective	186
III. Pragmatic philosophy and symbolic interactionism	189
A. The mind-body problem	189
B. Rejection of metaphysics	191
C. Symbols and communication	192
1. Importance of communication	192
2. Art as an example of this view of symbolic communication	193
3. Language	193
D. The act; social conduct	194
E. The self	196
F. Self as object	197
IV. George Herbert Mead	198
A. Psychological parallelism and behaviorism	199
B. Mind, gestures, signification, and meaning	201
C. Self	204
1. The "I"	204
2. The "me"	205
3. Acquisition of self; role-playing, role-taking, and the theory of stages	206
D. Society	209
V. Mead's influence	211
A. Herbert Blumer	212
1. Blumer on society	212
2. Blumer's critique of scientific method in sociology	214
B. Symbolic interactionists as positivists	216
1. Operationalism applied to symbolic interaction	217
2. The problem of nonempirical concepts	218
C. The question of motivation	219
VI. Research and symbolic interactionism	221
A. Using sensitizing sociological concepts	223
B. Empirical investigations of the self	226
VII. Conclusion and criticism	229
Key concepts; Topics for discussion; Essay questions; For further reading and study	233

7. ETHNOMETHODOLOGY	236
I. Introduction	236
II. The rise of ethnomethodology	237
III. Attitudes of daily life and the ethnomethodologists' program	239
A. Attitudes of everyday life	240
B. Ethnomethodology's program	241
IV. Ethnomethodology and language study	245
A. Generative semantics	249
V. Research procedures	252
VI. An assessment of ethnomethodology	255
A. On social order and social structure	255
Key concepts; Topics for discussion; Essay questions; For further reading and study	258
8. EPILOG	261
Index of names	263
General index	265