

Contents

Series Editor's Preface ix

A Note on Translation, Transliteration, and Dates xi

Prologue 1

"So Shone the Mountain That God Was Manifest"—Poetic Reflections of the Sacred

Chapter 1

The "Imaginative Struggle with Language"

A Story Told in the Thickness of Oil 4

Chapter 2

"The Primordial Mysteries, Neither You Understand nor I"

The Changing Sacred in Premodern Persian Poetry 29

Chapter 3

"I Was Heading for God's Quarters"

Resignifying the Poetic Idiom for Modern Spiritual Expression 58

Chapter 4

In "the Fragrant Core of a Fertilized Egg"

Merging the Feminine, the Natural, and the Spiritual 84

Chapter 5

"Infinite" Fruits in the Basket of Poetry

Resignifying the Mystical Idiom for Spiritual Expression 110

Chapter 6

"Hurry, Nazarene, Hurry!"

True Prophets Do Not Turn Back nor Do They Die 134

Epilogue

An Infinite Basket for Infinite Fruits—Methodological Conclusions 160

Notes 169

Index 189