

Contents

Contributors	vii
Glossary of Frequent Arabic Terms	ix

Introduction—Full-Spectrum Propaganda: Appraising the “IS Moment” in Propaganda History Stephane J. Baele	1
1. The Strategic Logic of Islamic State’s Full-Spectrum Propaganda: Coherence, Comprehensiveness, and Multidimensionality Haroro J. Ingram	20
2. Situating Islamic State’s Message: A Social and Theological Genealogy Mehdi Laghmari	50
3. The Matrix of Islamic State’s Propaganda: Magazines Stephane J. Baele, Katharine A. Boyd, and Travis G. Coan	84
4. Shock and Inspire: Islamic State’s Propaganda Videos Stephane J. Baele, Katharine A. Boyd, and Travis G. Coan	127
5. Islamic State’s Propaganda and Social Media: Dissemination, Support, and Resilience Laura Wakeford and Laura Smith	155
6. From Music to Books, from Pictures to Numbers: The Forgotten Yet Crucial Components of Islamic State’s Propaganda Stephane J. Baele and Charlie Winter	188
7. Countering Islamic State’s Propaganda: Challenges and Opportunities Tobias Borck and Jonathan Githens-Mazer	219
8. Terrorist Propaganda After the Islamic State: Learning, Emulation, and Imitation Paul Gill, Kurt Braddock, Sanaz Zolghadriha, Bettina Rottweiler, and Lily D. Cushenberry	242

vi CONTENTS

Afterword: The Uniqueness of Islamic State Thomas Hegghammer	265
Appendix 1: List of Anashīd Produced by the Islamic State	271
Appendix 2: Example of a Provincial News Report from Al-Bayan Radio	275
Index	277