

CONTENTS

Acknowledgments		xiii
Note to the Reader		xv
Introduction		xvii
	§1 Aristotle the Man	xvii
	§2 The Methods and Aims of Philosophy	xviii
	§3 Perfectionism	xxv
	§4 Human Nature + The Function Argument.	xxvii
	§5 Practical Agents	xxxv
	§6 Theorizers	xliii
	§7 Political Animals	xlviii
	§8 Rulers and Subjects	lix
	§9 Constitutions	lxv
	§10 The Ideal Constitution	lxxii
	§11 Conclusion	lxxviii
Map		lxxx

POLITICS

BOOK I

Chapter 1	The City-State and Its Rule	1
Chapter 2	The Emergence and Naturalness of the City-State	2
Chapter 3	Parts of the City-State: Household; Master, and Slave	5
Chapter 4	The Nature of Slaves	6
Chapter 5	Natural Slaves	7
Chapter 6	Are There Natural Slaves?	9
Chapter 7	Mastership and Slave-Craft	12
Chapter 8	Property Acquisition and Household Management	12
Chapter 9	Wealth Acquisition and the Nature of Wealth	15
Chapter 10	Wealth Acquisition and Household Management; Usury	18

Chapter 11	Practical Aspects of Wealth Acquisition Monopolies	19
Chapter 12	The Branches of Household Management Continued: Wife and Children	21
Chapter 13	The Different Virtues of Men, Women, Children, and Slaves	22
BOOK II
Chapter 1	Ideal Constitutions Proposed by Others	26
Chapter 2	Plato's Republic : Unity of the City-State	26
Chapter 3	Plato's Republic : Communal Possession of Women and Children (1)	28
Chapter 4	Plato's Republic : Communal Possession of Women and Children (2)	30
Chapter 5	Plato's Republic : Communal Ownership of Property	32
Chapter 6	Plato's Laws	36
Chapter 7	The Constitution of Phaleas of Chalcedon	41
Chapter 8	The Constitution of Hippodamus of Miletus	45
Chapter 9	The Spartan Constitution	49
Chapter 10	The Cretan Constitution	55
Chapter 11	The Carthaginian Constitution	58
Chapter 12	The Constitutions Proposed by Solon and Other Legislators	61
BOOK III
Chapter 1	City-States and Citizens What Is a City-State? What Is a Citizen? Unconditional Citizens	65
Chapter 2	Pragmatic Definitions of Citizens	67
Chapter 3	The Identity of a City-State	68
Chapter 4	Virtues of Men and of Citizens Virtues of Rulers and Subjects	70
Chapter 5	Should Craftsmen Be Citizens?	73
Chapter 6	Correct and Deviant Constitutions	75
Chapter 7	The Classification of Constitutions	77
Chapter 8	Difficulties in Defining Oligarchy and Democracy	78
Chapter 9	Justice and the Goal of a City-State Democratic and Oligarchic Justice	79

Chapter 10	Who Should Have Authority in a City-State?	82
Chapter 11	The Authority of the Multitude	82
Chapter 12	Justice, Equality, and Authority	85
Chapter 13	The Just Basis for Authority	87
Chapter 14	Types of Kingship	91
Chapter 15	Kingship and the Law	93
Chapter 16	Absolute Kingship	96
Chapter 17	The Constitutions Appropriate for Different Peoples	98
Chapter 18	The Ideal Constitution	100

BOOK IV

Chapter 1	The Tasks of Statesmanship	101
Chapter 2	Ranking Deviant Constitutions The Tasks of Book IV	103
Chapter 3	Constitutions Differ Because Their Parts Differ	104
Chapter 4	Precise Accounts of Democracy and Oligarchy Why Constitutions Differ Democracy and Its Parts Plato on the Parts of a City-State Kinds of Democracy	106
Chapter 5	Kinds of Oligarchy	111
Chapter 6	Kinds of Democracy and Oligarchy	112
Chapter 7	Kinds of Aristocracy	114
Chapter 8	Polities	114
Chapter 9	Kinds of Polities	116
Chapter 10	Kinds of Tyranny	118
Chapter 11	The Middle Class (1)	118
Chapter 12	The Middle Class (2)	121
Chapter 13	Devices Used in Constitutions	123
Chapter 14	The Deliberative Part of a Political System	124
Chapter 15	Offices	127
Chapter 16	Judiciary	132

BOOK V

Chapter 1	Changing and Preserving Constitutions The General Causes of Faction The Changes Due to Faction	134
Chapter 2	Three Principal Sources of Political Change	136
Chapter 3	Particular Sources of Political Change (1)	137

Chapter 4	Particular Sources of Political Change (2)	141
Chapter 5	Political Change In Democracies	144
Chapter 6	Political Change In Oligarchies	146
Chapter 7	Political Change In Aristocracies and Polities	149
Chapter 8	How to Preserve Constitutions (1)	152
Chapter 9	How to Preserve Constitutions (2)	156
Chapter 10	Changing and Preserving Monarchies	159
Chapter 11	Preserving Kingships and Tyrannies	166
Chapter 12	Long-Lasting Tyrannies	171
	Plato on Political Change
BOOK VI
Chapter 1	Mixed Constitutions	175
	Kinds of Democracies
Chapter 2	Principles and Features of Democracies	176
Chapter 3	Democratic Equality	178
Chapter 4	Ranking Democracies	179
Chapter 5	Preserving Democracies	182
Chapter 6	Preserving Oligarchies (1)	184
Chapter 7	Preserving Oligarchies (2)	185
Chapter 8	Kinds of Political Offices	187
BOOK VII
Chapter 1	The Most Choiceworthy Life	191
Chapter 2	The Political Life and the Philosophical Life Compared	193
Chapter 3	The Political and Philosophical Lives Continued	196
Chapter 4	The Size of the Ideal City-State	197
Chapter 5	The Territory of the Ideal City-State	200
Chapter 6	Access to the Sea and Naval Power	200
Chapter 7	Influences of Climate	202
Chapter 8	Necessary Parts of a City-State	203
Chapter 9	Offices and Who Should Hold Them	205
Chapter 10	The Division of the Territory	206
Chapter 11	The Location of the City-State and Its Fortifications	209
Chapter 12	The Location of Markets, Temples, and Messes	211
Chapter 13	Happiness as the Goal of the Ideal City-State The Importance of Virtue	212

Chapter 14	Rulers and Ruled	214
	The Goals of Education
Chapter 15	Education and Leisure	218
Chapter 16	Regulation of Marriage and Procreation	220
Chapter 17	The Education of Children	223
BOOK VIII
Chapter 1	Education Should Be Communal	227
Chapter 2	The Aims of Education	227
Chapter 3	Education and Leisure	228
	Music (1)
Chapter 4	Gymnastic Training	231
Chapter 5	Music (2)	232
Chapter 6	Music (3): Its Place in the Civilized Life	236
Chapter 7	Music (4): Harmonies and Rhythms	239
Glossary		243
Bibliography		263
Literary References		275
Index of Names		276
General Index		281