

Introduction

Sanjukta Das Gupta

383–392

Representing Indigeneity in South Asia: An Introduction

Articles

Krishnokoli Hazra

393–419

Knowledge, Perception and Control: Representations of “Tribes” in Colonial Northeastern India, 1870–1950

Arnav Bhattacharya

421–445

Managing the “Hypersexual” and “Primitive” Sexual Instinct: Examining the Role of Sexology in the Construction of “Tribal Identity” in Late 19th- and Early 20th-Century India

Bhangya Bhukya

447–474

Negotiating Modern Identity: The Lambadas of Telangana—from Nomadic Tribe to Subaltern Identity

Alessandra Consolaro

475–498

Gender and Identity in the Hindi Writing of the Adivasi Poets Jacinta Kerketta and Nirmala Putul

Marine Carrin

499–522

Witchcraft and Indigeneity in Santali Writings

Sanjukta Das Gupta

523–545

A “Criminal Tribe” in Post-Colonial India: Discrimination and Resistance in Chuni Kotal’s Writings

Anamitra Sarkar

547–573

Songs of Confrontation and Survival: Exploring the Moral World of the Sapha Hors from the Santal Parganas

Mara Matta

575–598

Indigeneities and Heterophoties: Elective Affinities in the Film My Bicycle by the Bangladeshi Rakhine Director
Aung Rakhine

Valeria Termolino

599–621

Countering Cultural Erasure: A Study on Adivasi Empowerment and Self-Determination Through Social Media

Book Reviews

Vasavi Kiro. Bhārat kī krāntikārī ādivāsī auratēṃ [Revolutionary Adivasi women of India].

(Marilena Proietti)

623–624

Peter B. Andersen. The Santal Rebellion 1855–1856: The Call of the Thakur.

(Sanjukta Das Gupta)

625–626

Contents of Volume of 92 (2024)

627–628